

Frank Rüttger Is in Charge of Product Business at IQDoQ

Document management subsidiary of MATERNA establishes new business unit for its out-of-the-box solution IQAkten

Bad Vilbel, March 9, 2011. IQDoQ has appointed Frank Rüttger (48) as head of the newly established business unit IQAkten. The experienced manager, being a member of the corporate management, is in charge of the complete product business of the 100% subsidiary of MATERNA. In their new business unit, the document and enterprise content management professionals will offer innovative and ready-to-use digital file solutions like the digital personnel file IQAkte Personal complementing the traditional project business around the highly scalable document management system (DMS) HyperDoc. Frank Rüttger who has a degree in mathematics, has served the company since its first days, recently as key account manager and authorized officer.

“Due to increased competition, the demand for digital file solutions helping companies to automate their document-based processes will rise in future,” explains Frank Rüttger. In contrast to customer-specific file solutions involving a high degree of development time and effort, the IQAkten applications are able to map any recurring tasks of special departments or business units in a standardized way, and may thus be implemented in few days. “We have fuelled our flexible standard fixed price solutions with our comprehensive document management expertise based on more than 20 years of experience in project business across the industries,” states the new head of the business unit IQAkten, who has taken on his agenda to expand the product family in the future, and to successfully launch further solutions in the market.

IQDoQ will continue to implement customer-specific and challenging digitization needs of basically company-wide business transactions by leveraging its DMS HyperDoc solutions. The company has long-term co-operations with many existing customers who manage their documents using these solutions in an efficient and audit-compliant way. “We are equally committed to strengthen these customer relationships which are based on a spirit of trust, and to develop a new business area,” explains Werner Schäfer, CEO of IQDoQ. “Being a team member right from the start, Frank Rüttger knows the market, the business, and the clients of IQDoQ very well. Thus he is very well prepared to drive our new product business and to integrate it seamlessly with our core business.“
